Whatever your age or family situation, home learning is ideal. In fact, if you have a family, it's a much more flexible approach to learning than attending a regular college. Providence Metro School of the Bible Your Choice for Home Study A Global University Study Center

Before you begin studying for a new qualification, you face a number of choices. One of them is where to study. Should you go to a local college or study from the comfort of your own home?

There are many reasons why we recommend you choose home learning. One of the main reasons is that it's less stressful to study at home because you remain in full control of your life. For instance, you control your study time, learning environment, the pace at which you learn, and can fit your studying time in around the needs of your family.

If you enroll at a local college, on the other hand, you will have to fit in with their timetables, term times, and will have to work at their pace, not your own. Plus, with Providence Metro School of the Bible, your Mentors will always be on hand to help out should you need them. It's also a recognized fact that you learn more easily if you are happy and relaxed while you're studying.
